Thinking for a Change Behavior/Enrichment Policy

Point system: A point system is in place for those participating in the Thinking for a Change (T4C) program. A chart will be displayed in the classroom indicating how a teen can accumulate daily points for appropriate and positive behaviors. One (1) point will be awarded for each desirable behavior.

Treasure Box: When a youth accumulates five (5) points, the youth may choose one (1) item from the Treasure Box.

Student of the Week: The Student of the Week is the student who has accumulated the most points by the end of the week. The student will be announced each week at the last meeting of that week, before leaving for the day. As student of the week, the teen shall earn five (5) hours of community service credit or comparable reward

The following are desirable behaviors for which students will earn points:

Daily attendance and on-time to class
Completing homework/tasks as assigned
Helping others and positive attitude
Full participation in class including role play activities

I have reviewed and provided a copy of the T4C Behavior and Enrichment policy with the youth and his Parent/Legal guardian on this date.
